Join the Firefox Student Ambassador program!

Who are we?

Firefox Student Ambassadors are individuals from around the world who are passionate about Mozilla and want to spread the word about the many benefits of Firefox and our other products – especially Firefox OS!

They act as campus guides for people who want to contribute to Mozilla and function as leaders for campaigns and projects that help build a brighter future for the Web globally.

Why you should join us!

- To become a part of the Mozilla community
- To gain leadership experience as the point person for Mozilla on your campus
- To earn awesome rewards and recognition

How to sign up

If you're 18 or older and currently associated with an institution of higher education (students, professors and administrators are all welcome!), please visit our wiki page to find out how you can become a Firefox Student Ambassador:
